Adderall (amphetamine-dextroamphetamine) is a controlled substance with harmful adverse effects if abused or misused. We assessed the availability of Adderall from common search engines, and evaluated the safety and marketing characteristics of online pharmacies selling Adderall.

From December 2019 to February 2020, the phrase “buy Adderall online” was queried in four search engines: Google (N = 100), Bing (N = 100), Yahoo (N = 50) and DuckDuckGo (N = 50). Online pharmacies that claimed to sell Adderall and had unique Uniform Resource Locators, were active, free-access, and in English language were included.

Outcome measures

Online pharmacies were categorized as rogue, unclassified, or legitimate on the basis of LegitScript classifications. Safety and marketing characteristics, and costs were collected.

About Adderall?

Adderall is a trademarked medication that includes a mixture of amphetamine and dextroamphetamine. It is also sold under specific brand names such as Maydays and Adderall XR.

It is a stimulant for the central nervous system that is approved for medical purposes only. Adderall is generally prescribed for the treatment of various mental health conditions.

Adderall works by affecting the brain and nerves to control hyperactivity and impulsive behavior. It may also have other off-label uses.

The FDA has categorized it as a Schedule IV controlled substance, and purchasing Adderall online is only permitted when other treatments are inadequate.

If you have ADHD or narcolepsy, your doctor might prescribe Adderall. Adderall is a prescription-based medicine that combines two stimulants, amphetamine and dextroamphetamine. It contains a hybrid, which is a central nervous system stimulant. For details about uses, order Adderall online.

Warnings of Adderall

Adderall has the potential to become addictive and may be misused. It has the potential to cause serious health issues like heart attack, stroke, and even death in individuals with high blood pressure or a heart abnormality.

Avoid using Adderall if you have used an MAO inhibitor within the last 14 days or have recently received a methylene blue injection.

Additionally, Adderall can contribute to the development or exacerbation of psychosis and should not be used if you have certain medical conditions. These conditions may include glaucoma, overactive thyroid, severe agitation, or a history of substance abuse.

If you notice any symptoms of heart issues, psychosis, or circulation problems, it is essential to seek immediate medical attention.

There is a high risk of serotonin syndrome when amphetamine and dextroamphetamine interact with certain medications. It is important to tell your provider about all other medications you are taking, including opioid medication, herbal products, and medication for depression.

Consult your doctor before making any changes to your medication dosage, or for best results, order Adderall online.

Things to know before using Adderall?

If you have an allergy to any stimulant medication, you should not use Adderall. Also, Adderall should not be used if you have any of the following conditions:

- Glaucoma
- Overactive thyroid
- Heart disease or coronary artery disease
- High blood pressure
- Vascular disease or hardening of the arteries
- A history of drug or alcohol addiction

We suggest you buy Adderall online to get a comprehensive dosage and drug guide. This guide will help you gain a safe treatment.

Important information for Adderall use?

- Follow the prescribed dosage of Adderall as directed by your doctor, and do not exceed or take it longer than recommended.
- If you cannot take tablets as they are, use a spoonful of applesauce for easier swallowing. Still, they should be taken immediately without saving any leftover mixture for later use.
- Adderall can be taken with or without food in the morning, but extended-release capsules should be swallowed whole without crushing, chewing, or breaking them.
- Proper consultation with your pharmacist is necessary while using this medication. Before you buy Adderall online, it is important to inform your healthcare expert if you have any severe medical injuries.

Dosage of Adderall

Usual adult dose for ADHD:

IR:

- Initial dose: 5 mg by mouth once or twice a day.
- Maintenance dose: You can increase the dose amount by 5 mg at regular intervals of 7 days
- Maximum dose: in extreme situations, it is suggested to take 40 mg daily.

XR:

For patients beginning treatment for the first time or transitioning from another medication:

- Start with an initial dosage of 20 mg taken orally once daily.

For Narcolepsy:

- The initial dose starts from 10 mg daily.
